A FURIOUS BLAZE.

Heavy Loss by Fire in St. Louis on Sunday Morning.

Fire Story Building Destroyed in Quick Order—Several Persons Barely Escaped.

One of the Largest Concerns in the World Burned Out and Large Stock Lost.

St. Louis, Dec. 19. A fire started in the basement of the building occupied by the Mermaid & Jaccard Jewelry Co., corner Locust street and Broadway, early this morning and in a short time the interior was destroyed. The total loss will reach $335,000; fully covered by insurance.

The fire had been burning some time before discovered. The south wall and all the floors began falling down afterward, making it impossible to escape, and the fire spread rapidly. Next to the boiler room was a room used for packing. It is thought the fire started in the boiler room, communicating to the packing room and showing up the elevator shaft.

W. A. Kallender, the engineer, and his family lived on the fourth floor. They barely escaped.

The fire dragged them unconscious from their beds and carried them down a fire escape. Five minutes later the floor fell. Several other persons in the building had narrow escapes but there were no fatalities.

The Mermaid & Jaccard Jewelry Co. was one of the largest in the world, and this being Christmas season carried an immense stock. Half the stock had been placed in the vaults and was saved, but the rest, as well as the building and its fixtures, were totally destroyed. The Model Clock Co. suffered $50,000 loss.

RELIEF FOR KLONDIKERS.

Plan of Secretary Alger to Get Food There.

Washington, Dec. 18. As a result of study as to the best means of getting supplies to the miners in the Yukon region, Secretary Alger has decided to ask for bids for the delivery of stores directly to the Klondike.

Secretary Alger's estimate now is that no less than 3,000,000 of food stores will be required for the season.

One question that has engaged his attention is that of securing the consent of the Canadian government for the passage of the relief expeditions over the part of Canadian Territory which must be traversed in reaching the miners.

It will not be necessary to order a passport for a military expedition to pass, and also to secure a permit of duties on the supplies carried over the border.

One thing the secretary will go himself to Ottawa in a few days and deal directly with the Canadian authorities.

Capt. Brainard of the subsistence department of the army, and now on duty in New York city, has been ordered to report to Gen. Merriam at Portland, Ore.

Secretary Alger has sent a telegram to Gen. Merriam instructing him to pick out two officers and 50 of his best men to act as guards for the relief expeditions before very long he will give Corbett, superintendent of the selection of stores, their delivery and proper packing for the trip across the mountains.

The present idea is that there will be 20 of these parties, and they will be loaded with 100,000 tons of food.

The United States military attaché of the legation at Stockholm has been called to the legation to render assistance in arranging animals and to ship them to Dyea. The route to be followed from Dyea to the interior is now being decided on the reports of the military officers.

OPEN SWITCH THE CAUSE.

Passenger Train Dashes Into a Freight Train Sidelocked.

Braveman Unable to Close the Switch and a Bad Wreck Occurred.

Six Persons Seriously Injured and the Two Engines and Cars Wrecked.

Pontiac, Ill., Dec. 19. An open switch on the Chicago and Alton railway was the cause of a collision today between the passenger train and a freight train. The passenger train was approaching the switch at 1:35 P. M. and a freight train on the side track.

The brakeman whose duty it was to close the switch was unable to move it, and he signalled the train to stop. The engineer applied the brakes and reversed his engine, but it was too late and the passenger train went crashing into the freight train.

The freight train was loaded with coal, and the passenger train was carrying passengers. The collision resulted in the death of one person and the serious injury of six others.

The freight train was owned by the Chicago and North Western Railway, and the passenger train was owned by the Chicago and Alton Railway.

The cause of the accident was an open switch that the brakeman was unable to close.

SMALL POX ON BOARD.

One Case on Ocean Steamer—Passengers Held for Observation.

New York, Dec. 19. The Holland-American line steamer Edam, Capt. Brunan, arrived at Quarantine last night from Amsterdam and Bologno with 277 steerage passengers, and another vessel awaiting the visit of the health officers.

When the passengers were landed to-day by the health officer, found a small case of small pox on board.

Mr. Doty, the health officer, made a thorough investigation of the case and decided to vaccinate all insufficiently protected passengers and to remove all to Hoffman island for observation of 14 days. The patient and her mother were transferred to the North Brother Island. The steamer, which was thoroughly disinfected in the quarantine hospital, and all other exposed persons, was allowed to proceed to her dock.

MURDER MOST HORRIBLE.

A Case as Terrible as the Alleged Lufelger Atrocity.

Man Thrown into a Dugout Mixing Vat and Cut to Pieces.

That is the Belief of Relatives Only Willness Is Now in Ireland.

New York, Dec. 19. The Herald-Examiner says that a murder of unusual horror was recently brought to the attention of the authorities, the alleged victim having been Peter Duggan, aged 30, who, if his relatives are justified in their stories, was thrown into a dough mixing vat at No. 127 West 15th street on Aug. 28 and cut to pieces.

Duggan's sister, the police are told, has received a letter from her mother in Ireland, who says that the man who was the witness of the crime is now there. This witness was in the factory of the New York Baking Co., where Duggan was employed, August 28, and saw and heard what was done to the victim.

The police are now making a search for the man who was the witness of the crime.

A Fatal Spider-Web.
When a fly gets caught in a spider web, it is not long before it is dead. In the same way, a person who is caught in the web of a disease, such as the one which is the cause of the fatal spider-web, is not long before he is dead. The only way to avoid this is to use the medicine which is the only cure for the disease.

CITY AND VICINITY.

The moulds for the new barges to be built at the New England yard at Bath have been sent to Canada.

The lumber for the floors will be procured in the eastern part of the State.

Ed. Smith, of Guilford, who is running a hay press through the country with six men and four horses, has averaged pressing ten tons of hay per day.

The total to date from August 25 to 1-300 tons, and enough more is engaged ahead to bring the full amount up to 1,000 tons.

We recently heard a man tell an experience he had while peddling in Aroostook county.

He stopped at a house where there were so destitute as to be unable to set the table with dishes for seven persons.

This aroused his sympathy and when the woman of the house wanted to buy a hoop skirt he made the price just what it cost him.

But when she reached into a pocket and fished out a wallet containing a big wad of bills he realized that appearances are sometimes deceiving.

Port Fairfield Leader. Rev. Earl B. Wood, of Bangor, occupied the Congregational pulpit Sunday morning.

Mr. Wood gave an able, practical sermon, replete with thought and spiritual truth.

Mr. Wood is a graduate of Bowdoin college of '92, and also a graduate of the Harvard Divinity School at Cambridge, Mass.

He comes highly recommended not only as a man of culture and high intellectual attainments but also as a man of noble Christian character and sterling worth.

We are glad to meet with a kind and warm reception.

Amos Abbott & Co., of Dexter, have engaged about 4,000 cords of wood, nearly all they intend to purchase this winter.

Large quantities of soft coal have been used at the mill of late years and this fall they received at one time 600 tons.

Notwithstanding this large amount the supply was insufficient to last a year.

It is said by the firm for cordwood that it often exceeds $2.75.

This claim is all they can afford to pay with the price of coal as it is at present.

The farmers realize spot cash for their wood there is no lack of supply off red at the fire's desire.

The funeral of the late Rev. Ephraim C. Cummings, D. D., took place at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon from the residence of the deceased at 112 Park street, Portland.

There was a very large attendance. On and about the casket were a number of floral offerings.

The services which were brief but most impressive were conducted by Rev. W. H. Fennell, D. D., Rev. J. L. Jenkins, D. D., Rev. A. M. D. D., and Rev. J. C. Perkins.

At the grave services were conducted by Rev. A. H. Wright. The pall bearers, selected from the old friends of the deceased, were Hon. Nathan Webb, Hon. George F. Talbot, Hon. James P. Baxter, Rev. Henry S. Burrage, D. D., Dr. J. W. Whidden and Rev. D. Adams of Bangor.

Interment was at Evergreen.

No matter how hard times are, and a toy salesman who travels for a big Boston house, "poor people will buy toys for Christmas."

They generally put it off until the last day or so, and you find they were not going to buy at all but it seems to me you can't deny the Christmas spirit in them, hard times or not, and they go to the stores and get things for the children even if they haven't money for shoes or food.

His connection with the wood the heptars, selected from the old friends of the deceased, were Hon. Nathan Webb, Hon. George F. Talbot, Hon. James P. Baxter, Rev. Henry S. Burrage, D. D., Dr. J. W. Whidden and Rev. D. Adams of Bangor.

A well known Bangor lady inquired of Chief of Police Gilman if a young, well appearing and well dressed man had applied for shelter at the station. She said that he had called upon her and asked for money stating that he wanted to get to Clinton, leaving on the 11 o'clock train, but that money he had wanted for necessary expenses and in fact he told a very plausible tale of need. The lady felt sorry that she happened to have no money at the time and could not at what appeared to her a deserving case but when the chief told her the young man had been working the same game upon quite a number of Bangor people, the matter assumed a different hue. To some he said he wanted to get to Waterville.

Few stores offer such valuable hints or greater attractions than a drug-china store such as that of P. H. Yuse & Co., 69 Main street. To those who have been told to decide any further than "about how much they would wish to pay," the rest of the question becomes an easy matter there.

SYNAGOGUE DEDICATED.

Beth Israel Society Opens its New

On Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock the new Jewish synagogue of Beth Israel society on Centre street was dedicated with appropriate and interesting ceremonies which were well attended. The synagogue was tastefully decorated by Beers, and the service was well planned and being used with pleasing effect. The service was opened with a well planned selection by members of Pollen's orchestra and a chant by Mr. Louis Goldkopf.

Mr. Louis Goldkopf then delivered a short address giving the history of the society, saying that a year ago the society was poor and met in the houses of the members. Later a hall was secured. The membership having become eighty it was decided in September to have a synagogue. A lot was purchased for $1,000 and the money to build the synagogue was obtained in Bangor. It is the only one of the kind in the city. The name of the society he desired to thank the citizens for their contributions and interest.

A chant by Louis Goldkopf, the ceremony of carrying the Bible around the altar and a selection by the orchestra followed and then Rabbi Lasker of Union Park street Temple, of Boston, one of the leading Jewish clergymen in America, delivered an address.

Rabbi Lasker said that he shared their exalted joy upon that occasion. Success had crowned their efforts, which had culminated in that ceremony of dedication, and he wished to express his admiration and faithfulness to the religion of their ancestors. He said that the society had endeavored to complete the work. It was gratifying to behold their zeal and enthusiasm and he wished to remain faithful to their religious inheritance.

He who is the ruler of the universe send them a message announcing the good tidings of peace, happiness and salvation and he is a minister of Israel's religion. He said that the society was a congregation in Bangor wishing them prosperity and that they do not desire to be a burden to the community. To the synagogue they would come to lay aside all heart burnings and hatreds and receive spiritual comfort and enlightenment, blend their voices in prayer, expand their hearts in sympathy and consecrate themselves to a life of justice, peace and love.

Happiness is the aim and desire of all but it is not gained by wealth, enjoyment or honors. No! They never satisfy the noble desires of our hearts.

This edifice is erected to the glory of God. It will triumph and this banner of light and truth of our ancestors must shine brilliantly in this congregation. Here all will come to the synagogue to be supported, the orphan who will be cared for and the penitent who will find relief.

In conclusion Rabbi Lasker said that he consecrated the building and all within it to the most high God, Father of all mankind and God of the universe. The address was an impressive one and it was listened to with close attention by all.

The brief closing ceremonies of chant and music then occurred after a service of a high order and a quiet prayer. The new synagogue is a substantial and neatly arranged structure. The lower portion contains a lecture hall and being a vestry for small meetings upon ordinary occasions, another room for business and a third for the children. All are comfortably and conveniently arranged and are nicely adapted to the needs of the society. The main auditorium is of good size and attractive arrangement. The altar is located in the center of the room and in the rear of the altar the entire building is lighted by incandescent electric lights. From this time on the society will occupy the synagogue for regular services and meetings.

The Magic Art

Of Amnesh, the German magician, who gives an entertainment at Y. M. C. A. Hall tomorrow evening, the Daily Whig and Courier, of Dayton, O., has the following:

The magician was greeted with good sized audiences of delighted people at both performances. His tricks were marvellous, and he was full of bluffs, boasts and lies he produced, apparently from nowhere, what would not be taken for the real thing. He was a manager, elephant and all, trotted out of a black hat.

Very delightful was two celebrated trick of which travelers have so often told wonderful tales—his apparently boundless power of producing things from the Hindu fakirs. The closing trick appealed to every patriotic heart and was a fitting climax to the performance. A performance of such perfect manner and pleasing abilities as he rendered is not a little to the entertainment.

Death of Solomon Gee.

Mr. Solomon Gee, a well known resident of Orono, died Saturday afternoon about 1 o'clock. He had been in poor health for several years and for the past few weeks has been confined to his bed. Saturday morning he seemed better but about noon he grew rapidly worse with death coming. He was 71 years of age. He had been in business in Orono, Bangor and Calais for many years. He was prominent in politics in the days of the Greenback party and he was a Populist. He was the candidate of that party for Judge of Probate of Penobscot county in the campaign of 1895. He leaves a wife and three children, Archibald Gee, of Bangor; A. H. Gee, of Lewiston; and Miss Anne M. Gee, of Orono, who have the sympathy of many friends in their bereavement.

WHAT SALOONS THINK

Of Prohibition, The Subject of Another Address by Rev. H. E. Foss.

On Sunday evening Rev. H. E. Foss, delivered the second of his addresses on prohibition and license and was heard by an audience which nearly filled the First M. E. church. Rev. Mr. Foss took for his subject "What the Saloons think of Prohibition." The speaker said that in a former address showing what the church thought of prohibition they had listened to the voice of the church legislative and advisory bodies which were a unit for the extermination of the liquor traffic and in this address he would speak to the great gatherings of liquor manufacturers and the liquor press for their opinion of prohibition. In beginning he would lay down the principle that the saloon was an uncompromising agent of prohibition as the church was strong for it.

Mr. Foss started with the year 1867 when the brewers of the country met in Chicago. The president then said that the association was opposed by a danger to the liquor trade and that they must bring to bear all possible pressure against it. A speech at the brewers' convention in 1871 declared that the Puritan fanatics were filling the West with their pestiferous ideas as well as the East.

In Boston in 1874 the liquor men in convention called prohibitionists hars, scoundrels, persecutors, opium eaters, and other such epithets and they were against prohibition. In 1875 in Cincinnati this body resolved that where liquor existed every effort should be put forth to have them repealed and that every prohibition candidate should be opposed. At Buffalo in 1880 the editor of a liquor paper told about having made an appeal to Senators and Congressmen to pass laws of prohibition on the ground that they were not in accord with personal liberty.

It has been said that the liquor men are more cautious and crime, but the records of the Maine State prison show that it was during the years of license when the largest number of convicts were made. In no State are the bank deposits larger per capita than in Maine, and the speaker said he was certain that they are the largest of any State.

In 1887 the brewers and that the fight was not on prohibition but on liquor. The secretary of a big liquor concern wrote that the prohibitory law may not be enforced, but that it could be and he thought everything possible should be done to prevent such laws.

The Philadelphia hotel and saloon keepers' journal declared for high license as compared with prohibition. The national distillers' association objected to prohibition as one thing. The liquor men objected to prohibition on the ground that it infringes personal rights, that such was the ruin of respectable industry and bread-eaters know that prohibition sometimes does prohibit and that there is always that possibility before them.

Rev. Mr. Foss told of a decision of the Supreme Court in 1890 which was against the legality of liquor selling. He said that the saloons would like high license and more respectability for many years than they come to in Bangor. He said that the liquor men would like to see in the days, thus giving them an increase in patronage and enabling them to pay the amount of the license fee.

Some people are so cautious that under prohibition the quality of the liquor is so poor that it is not fit to drink. The speaker said that the liquor men, which some held, that more liquor was used under the prohibition law was contrary to the declarations of the manufacturers and the liquor press for twenty-five years.

The speaker quoted from Governor McKelvey's report in 1896 and James G. Blaine showing that the State of Maine had been benefited by prohibition. He said that during his tenure in the State he had visited over 100 cities and towns and could bear testimony to the good effect of prohibition. The prohibitionists showed by personal letters from Massachusetts officials and a statistic that the number of arrests for drunkenness have increased and efficiency.
